BRYAN ADAMS!

You know all the hits, you know the voice...and we deliver it all in full force....everytime!

Are you ready for this?

OUR STORY

In Canada's southernmost reaches, where live music culture runs deep and audiences know the difference between a good cover band and a truly immersive tribute, one act is making serious noise. This Thing We Started is not just another homage to the music of Bryan Adams — it's a full-throttle celebration powered by decades of experience, chemistry, and an unapologetic love for one of Canada's greatest musical exports.

Comprised of veteran southwestern Ontario musicians Chad Everaert, Kevin Harris, Don Garant, Jay Barrette, and Dustin O'Neil, This Thing We Started delivers the massive hooks, emotional ballads, and stadium-sized anthems that defined Bryan Adams' career - and they deliver them with conviction. From the opening chords to the final encore, the band captures not only the sound, but the spirit of Adams' music: raw, melodic, and relentlessly energetic.

Fronting the band is Chad Everaert, whose dual role as lead vocalist and guitarist anchors the show. A graduate of the Fanshawe Music Industry Arts Program, Everaert brings over 30 years of performance experience to the stage, backed by a professional career in audio engineering, video production, and graphic design. His background ensures that every show is as polished sonically as it is visually, while his vocal delivery channels the grit and heart fans expect from classic Bryan Adams hits.

On lead guitar, Kevin Harris adds precision, fire, and melodic sensibility shaped by years of touring, recording, and teaching. A former member of several late-'90s touring acts, Harris later transitioned into music education, influencing thousands of students while continuing to write and perform his own original material. His playing balances faithful recreation with tasteful personal flair — never flashy for the sake of it, always in service of the song.

Holding down the low end is bassist Don Garant, whose 30-plus years of experience provide the band's rhythmic backbone. Known for his tight pocket and melodic approach, Garant's playing locks seamlessly with drummer Jay Barrette — a high-energy powerhouse whose thunderous grooves have driven countless Windsor–Detroit area stages for over 25 years. Together, they form a rhythm section that's both rock-solid and relentlessly propulsive.

Rounding out the lineup is keyboardist Dustin O'Neil, a master of texture and tone. With roots in tribute performance through his previous work and ongoing original projects, O'Neil uses technology and musical intuition to recreate the iconic sounds audiences recognize instantly, enhancing every chorus and breakdown seamlessly. The result is a tribute act that feels less like imitation and more like a shared memory brought roaring back to life.

One thing is certain - once the lights go up and the first song hits, you really can't stop This Thing We Started!
